Elba Schools superintendent provides positive news to board members regarding multiple grant funding coming Elba's way

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The Elba Board of Education met Tuesday, Feb. 19, for the regular monthly meeting, and superintendent Chris Moseley had good reports regarding grants for board members.

Moseley said the school system had received an approximate $4,000 RC&D (Resource Conservation and Development) Grant. He said this grant is tied in directly with the elementary school playground project.

Also regarding the playground, Moseley said everything had been turned in for a ADEM (Alabama Department of Environmental Management) Grant, and the school is pretty much approved for $8,000 in grant funds with this. He said these monies are tied directly to recycled tiring for the playground.

Moseley said all this would be used along with funds from the TJ Fund, which was established by the Wicker Family. He said they had specifically requested funds for this go towards the playground project at the elementary school.

Moseley said a lot of work is going into the playground. He said the work on this project would need to be timed well to avoid disrupting school as much as possible.

"I want to do the best I can not to disrupt them as much as possible," Moseley said.

However, he said a lot would depend on when the workers can get to the project. He also noted that some work definitely would need to be completed prior to Oct. 1st for funding purposes.

Moseley said Elba City Schools also had received a $100,000 grant as part of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Grant.

He said this grant allows for 40 percent of the funding to go towards personnel.

"That's big for us as you all know," Moseley said to board members.

He said the rest of the grant monies would be spread out into different areas, but a large portion would be used for technology.

"We hope to build a lab at the high school," he said. "With all the testing and things going on at the high school, that is the dire need right now."

Along with that, Moseley said the school system had received 30 free computer desks from Vestavia Hills. He said that school had offered them online, and Elba was the first to make contact. He gave props to chief financial officer Valerie McKelvey for noticing this offer and bringing it to his attention.

Putting all that together, Moseley said the goal would be to purchase 30 computers for the new lab at the high school to go along with the desks received from Vestavia Hills. He said he hoped he would be able to say this project was completed by the next board meeting.

The only item on the meeting agenda requiring a board vote was the proposed 2019-2020 School Calendar for Elba City Schools.

Moseley said the calendar he was recommending for approval is a 177-day calendar that more that meets the 1,080 hours of class time required by the state.

However, he noted the state recently sent out word that it would like, but not requiring, schools to return to the old 180-days of classroom time rather than the hours system. He said he knew of several schools systems that had already approved school calendars prior to the state sending out this request.

Moseley said all that is required is for the school system to turn in a waiver to the state, and there should be no problem with them approving the calendar. He said he already had the waiver ready to submit upon board approval of the school calendar.

He did say there is a 'back-up' 180-day calendar prepared just in case there

News Brief:

A single vehicle crash at 3:15 a.m., Sunday, Feb. 24, claimed the life of an Enterprise woman, according to Alabama State Troopers.

Lindsey Brooke Jensen, age 22, was killed when the 2017 Hyundai Elantra she was riding in left the roadway and struck a bridge piling. Jensen was pronounced dead on scene.

The driver, Robert Earl Whatley, age 23, of New Brockton, Ala., was injured and transported to D.W. McMillian Hospital.

The crash occurred on Interstate 65 at the 70 mile marker, ten miles west of Flomaton. Nothing further is available as Alabama State Troopers continue to investigate.

ELBA BASEBALL 'FUN'DRAISER...The annual Old Timers vs Rookies baseball game for the Elba High baseball program was held last Saturday, Feb. 23, at Elba High School. It was reported to be a fun day for all involved, and great support was provided for the baseball program. Above, Elba High senior Richmon Singletary was all smiles as he rounded the bases while Elba alumnus Chase Moseley watches. More information and photos from this event can be found on Page 9 of today's paper.

Elba High hosting Pea River Concert Band Festival on Thursday and Friday

During the Elba Board of Education meeting held Tuesday evening, Feb. 19, superintendent Chris Moseley invited board members to attend the Pea River Concert Festival, which is being held this week at Elba High School.

He said this event would be bringing some 13 different band programs to Elba to participate in this concert band festival. During the festival the concert bands perform and receive feedback from clinicians/judges regarding their program.

The Elba High School Band and the Elba Intermediate Band also will be performing during this festival.

Moseley said the school system is happy to be able to host the Pea River Concert Festival, and he invited all who could to attend. He said this is good for the schools and the community.

The Pea River Concert Festival Performance Schedule is as follows:

Thursday, Feb. 28th
Elba High School Band - 8:45 a.m.

Starla Amison, chairperson of the Miss Elba Pageants committee, addressed council members. She said there is a five-person committee overseeing the pageants this year for the City of Elba.

A former Miss Elba queen herself, Amison said the pageants mean a lot to her. She said when a young lady puts that crown on "they are Elba."

Amison said she got away from the Miss Elba Pageants as her two sons grew up and that required her presence more at a ball field than a pageant setting. Now, however, she said they are grown, and she is able to return to directing the Miss Elba Pageants.

Amison said this is the first time the City of Elba has been the pageant host in

ROUTINE TESTING of the Elba flood gate at the Pea River Bridge, and both other gates, on Monday of this week assured they will work as designed when and if needed.

Flood gates in Elba tested earlier this week

by Ferrin Cox, Publisher

The anniversary of the two Elba floods of the 1990s is just around the corner. Heavy rains still rattle many who survived those events.

Elba Street department and Water and Electric crews routinely check the flood gates, the two large pumps, the numerous flap gates in the levee and the levee itself. However, they are looking closer and wider during their inspections this week as these anniversaries approaches.

Monday morning, Feb.

25, the employees activated each of the three flood gates, cleaned the tracks in the roadways, oiled and greased bearings, and gears as training for employees.

When the gates are functioning correctly the entire process of securing that road opening can be completed in slightly over two minutes - far less than prior to the levee upgrade when the gates were closed with timbers and sandbags.

During this week each of these flood prevention measures will be checked and doubled checked and all employees trained on operating and maintaining the integrity of the system.

The flap gates that allow water from inside the levee to flow out but close when the river rises to flood state are checked for debris that man have floated into the pipes and the hinges of the flaps oiled.

The two pumps have standby generators to keep them pumping if the electrical power fails during a flood. Each has a 500-gallon tank of fuel on site at each pump. These are also activated regularly to ensure they will start up and will pump water.

Coffee County Commission approves policy for off duty security services work involving sheriff's deputies

by Linda Hodge, Editor

The Coffee County Commission held a rather routine meeting Monday, Feb. 25, in New Brockton, with no real surprises coming to light.

County administrator Rod Morgan had only one item to commissioners to consider during the meeting. He said the group had been discussing in work sessions the need for a resolution that gives approval from the commission for off duty officers to use their county-issued equipment when providing security services to for entities within the county.

Morgan said it is not uncommon for the sheriff to approve off duty security work for deputies interested in assisting entities in need of security services as they are still providing public safety services to the community, and at the same time, it allows the officers to make a little extra money.

Morgan further said that Alabama law allows for officers to do this and use their property issued by the local agency. He said the sheriff also has a policy regarding off duty work for the officers, and therefore, the commission also needed a resolution in place noting that deputies are allowed to use their county property for the off duty security services as approved by the sheriff.

Commissioners approved the resolution with no opposition.

Environmental services director Mike Thornton asked commissioners to approve the purchase of a new D6 Waste Handler for the landfill to replace a 2005 model D8 that has lots of miles on it and is in need of repairs, which he said are not cost effective for the county.

Thornton said the new D6 would cost $467,310.89 and would be budget neutral for this year, if the county added the 2005 D8 to surplus and sold it. He said any funds from the sale of the D8 would cover any costs associated with the new piece of equipment this budget year.

Commissioners approved a motion to surplus and offer for sale the 2005 D8 waste handler and to purchase the new D6 requested by Thornton for the landfill.

Upon recommendation

BRAINSTORMS

With Ferrin Cox

"Opportunities are usually disguised as hard work, so most people don't recognize them." – Ann Landers

We read last week that people have been posting personal health information on Facebook and then complaining because Facebook 'shared' the information with others! Folks that problem is easy to solve. Just stop posting your private information – medical or any other kind – on social media. We might add . . . don't send revealing photos of yourself to others and you will not get embarrassed and/or surprised by having them show up on public websites and many people's computer. Maybe worse – Mother and Grandmother might see it! That 'trusted' friend can share it with a single friend and that one with two pals or trusted friends gets hurt feelings and embarrasses you by design.

Last week we took the test administered to immigrants as they strive for nationalized citizenship. The bait that got us to actually try the exam was a headline that noted only 30% of native U. S. citizens could score high enough to pass the test. Heck the questions were very simple! It is shocking that so many U. S. citizens fail the test. Oh, we did miss one of the test questions. If you are asked 'How many amendments are there to the U. S. Constitution?' remember the answer is 27 and NOT the 26 that this cocky country boy opined. Don't ask us to list the 27 amendments, the year they passed Congress, the year each one was finally approved by the states, and/or their purpose – we can't do it. You will just have to ask Google! Also, before we start strutting around town over our test results, be aware that it is a multi-choice exam with four choices, not a real test of American and/or government history.

What looked like a sure thing for the upcoming Alabama Legislature several weeks ago is now in trouble of falling flat before it gets started. The gasoline tax for road and bridge improvement was getting endorsements from all sides at first. Now the legislators are apparently getting anti-tax pressure from lots of voters. A poll last week of Republican lawmakers found very little open support for the tax. In fact, a majority of them reportedly responded that they were opposed to new taxes. If the Republicans are against it, it is dead because they are the majority. We have seen quotes from a couple of lawmakers who indicated they could support a 1¢ or even 3¢ raise but not the dime being proposed. Frankly we doubt that small of a tax increase would solve the problems. It surely would not solve the state's, the county's and city's road and bridge needs. The cities and counties were already jockeying for more of the proposed original 10¢ increase.

Work on the U. S. 84 Bypass 4-laning project is moving, but it seems to be at the pace of a slow turtle. Back many, many years ago when this road project was first announced (some 18-20 years ago) the now deceased Drexel Cook opined to this old man that he doubted either of us would ever see the work completed. Well he is already half right – he died several years ago and the jury is still out on yours truly because the work is not completed.

The folks who are accused of running Amazon and their new facility that would employ 25,000 people with an average annual salary of over $100,000 out of New York City this month would have to sleep with a gun under their pillow if that happened anywhere in Alabama. Yes, the tax abatements offered were high, but the potential income to the city and state was even higher (read in Mercedes and Alabama for a prime example). Probably there was a shortfall in explaining the whole picture to the New York citizens because those who preached against the project are now thumping their chest for the 'success'.

USACRC bids farewell to command sergeant major

The U.S. Army Combat Readiness Center hosted a retirement ceremony for the Army's top enlisted adviser on safety and occupational health issues Tuesday, Feb. 26, at the United States Army Aviation Museum on base in Fort Rucker, Ala.

Command Sgt. Maj. Ernest D. Bowen Jr. is set to retire after nearly 33 years of service in the U.S. Army. An Ohio native, Bowen began his career in July 1986 as an infantryman and graduated Basic Training and Advanced Individual Training at Fort Benning, Georgia.

Since then, he has served in every key leadership position in the Infantry, from team leader to command sergeant major.

"Over the past 30 years, I've spent a lot of time with NCOs and leadership across the Army. These men and women are truly the backbone of our force, but none in my career have surpassed the dedication, the humility and professionalism of Command Sgt. Maj. Bowen. He has been a source of continuity for me since I first got here, he's a traveling companion, a sounding board, a confidant, and most of all, I consider him a friend," said Brig. Gen. Timothy J. Daugherty, commanding general, USACRC and director of Army Safety. "I say without exaggeration that he epitomizes every trait I personally admire most in those around me."

Bowen has served in his current position since April 2017 and has played a critical role in Army safety during his tenure at the USACRC.

"You don't do this (Army career) alone, you never will and if you're trying, or you do, or you're not passing that message on to those junior to you or those peers who just don't get it then you're really missing the boat," Bowen said. "This is a team. Our uniform says U.S. Army, and you know, you've got to really live that. That's what really has inspired me to stay in and just take care of people."

Daugherty also thanked Bowen and his wife, Donna, for their effort and support during Bowen's time in the Army.

"You will be missed, but it is with immense joy that we look to you and Donna's future," he said. "True to the Infantry's motto of 'Follow Me!' you have led the way for countless Soldiers and future leaders in the Army for the last 33 years and I offer you a heartfelt thanks."

many years, and she said she wanted to personally thank the city for taking on this task again.

"We are getting back to the basics this year," she said. "We want to lay a firm foundation this year and grow from there."

Amison said one of the biggest changes made this year is reducing the entry fee from $150 in the past to only $35 this year. She said this should make it more affordable for young ladies to compete.

Also, Amison said the pageants had been closed this year to Elba residents/students only.

The pageants are set for Saturday, April 6, at the Elba High School auditorium. Registration packets now are available for pick-up at Elba City Hall, Elba High School, and Elba Elementary School.

The next "event" for the Miss Elba contestants will be the Miss Elba Tea, according to Amison. She said this will be held March 17th at 2 p.m.

"This will be the first time our group collectively comes together," said Amison.

She invited the council to "Thank you all for investing in these kids," Amison said in conclusion. Mayor Mickey Murdock thanked Amison and the other committee members for their work in directing this year's pageants.

Also during Monday evening's meeting, Police Chief Leslie Hussey invited council members to attend a memorial program Friday morning, March 1, beginning at 6:30 a.m. in honor of the late Coffee County Sheriff C.F. "Neil" Grantham. This will be at the old jail in Elba.

Coffee County Extension coordinator Gavin Mauldin introduced a new employee to commissioners during Monday's meeting. He said Christina "Tina" Cook had joined the staff as a Nutrition Education agent and would be in the local schools working with students.

Mauldin said Coffee County would be sharing Cook with Geneva County for these services.

Also during Monday's meeting, Ben McKee, an Alabama GOP delegate for Coffee County, briefly addressed commissioners. He invited them to come and speak at the local Coffee County Republican meetings.

The next Coffee County Commission meeting will be Monday, March 11, at 9 a.m., in the community room of the county complex in New Brockton.

is a problem on the state level with the proposed 177-day calendar.

Moseley said the schools were presented three calendar options, rather than it being only a committee decision, and the 177-day calendar presented for approval was the overwhelming choice of the schools.

Board member Matt Brunson made a motion to approve the proposed 2019-2020 calendar, and he received a second from board member Greg Sowell. The motion was approved by a unanimous vote of the board.

Also during the meeting, the superintendent noted the Show Choir would be performing Saturday, March 2, at a competition in Enterprise. He also said Prom would be March 8th.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'Uncompromising in compromising': Orange Beach will remain family friendly

With eight miles of beachfront on the Alabama Gulf Coast and 46 miles of total shoreline, including the back bays, the City of Orange Beach is a year-round recreational paradise.

Our winter visitors to the beach, called snowbirds, arrive in earnest after the holidays and generally stay between January 1st and mid-March. It is during this time when 60% of Orange Beach's 9,900 accommodation units are occupied, ballooning our 6,000 population to upwards of 30,000. In short, we become a much larger city than most people realize even during the "off" season. During peak season, occupancy hovers around 90% with our numbers topping 100,000. On paper, the City of Orange Beach ranks 101st in population in Alabama, but is far from that at any point during the year. At the height of the summer season in July, Orange Beach becomes the state's 5th largest city, and even during the winter months we're in the top 20.

While our population is always in flux, our traditional family values never waiver. The city council and I have made an intentional choice to preserve our "family-friendly" brand. Come March, snowbirds are replaced by families enjoying spring break. While spring break is a special time for so many, unfortunately it is also a time when a few vacationers take advantage of our kindness and hospitality.

For those looking for a party town during spring break, Orange Beach is not it. Underage drinking, illegal drug use, disorderly conduct or any disturbance of the peace is never tolerated here. There will be no warnings, no mulligans, pour-outs, or do-overs. If you are drinking under age, if you are doing illegal drugs, misbehaving or are publicly intoxicated, you will go to jail.

We will not compromise our family-friendly brand for a buck. We are uncompromising in compromising. We respect our visitors and expect it in return. It is only fair. We are a sanctuary city... for families, and pride ourselves on that.

By protecting our brand, we are also protecting the investment the State of Alabama continues to make at its beaches - from roadways to bridges to the Gulf State Park. The state continues to see an ever-increasing return on its investment.

Spring break will be here before we know it and remember our family-friendly beaches are here for you. When Alabamians vacation at home on our sugar-white sands, it's a win-win for everyone.

For our visitors from all over the country... all over the world, we want to create and present an image of an Alabama that believes in God, family and country. We want all Alabamians to be proud of the family-friendly image that we present and protect.

Memorial Program with Call for Support of First Responders set for Friday, March 1st, at old Coffee County Jail in Elba

It was early morning Thursday, March 1, 1979 when Coffee County Sheriff C.F. "Neil" Grantham arrived at the Coffee County Jail for duty that day, but before he could enter the building, Sheriff Grantham was shot multiple times by Billy Joe Magwood. The sheriff died shortly after this attack.

In memorial to the 40th Anniversary of the Sheriff Grantham's death, the Grantham family is planning a Memorial and Support of First Responders Program for Friday, March 1, 2019, beginning at 6:30 a.m. This program will be conducted in front of the old Coffee County Jail [site of Sheriff Grantham's shooting], on Putnam Street in Elba.

The ringing of the Elba United Methodist Church bells, at 6:45 a.m., will honor Sheriff Grantham. This is the approximate time the shooting occurred that tragic morning 40 years ago.

Following the remembrance of Sheriff Grantham, a short program honoring all First Responders will be held. This program is being planned to show support for all First Responders and thank them for their service.

The Grantham family knows all too well the sacrifices that go along with being a First Responder, and the family wants to use the anniversary of Sheriff Grantham's death to pull the community together and show an unwavering support for all First Responders.

The public is invited.

Elba United Methodist and Covenant Community churches join forces to bring Ashes to Go to Elba's square March 6th

This year Easter Sunday will be celebrated on April 21st.

This is such a holy occasion that Christians thousands of years ago started preparing themselves with prayer and fasting or giving something up during a 40-day period called Lent. This season always begins on Ash Wednesday, which will be observed this year on Wednesday, March 6th.

On this day the palm branches from last year's Palm Sunday are burned to ashes, and those ashes are used to mark the sign of the cross believers' foreheads with the words, "Remember you are dust and to dust you shall return."

"If you are thinking this is an odd tradition, then you are not alone," said Elba United Methodist Church pastor Rev. Steven Reneau. "Yet, the power of this moment is in how strange it is, because in this moment we are authentically looking at who we are and the

Troy University's Symphony Band concert set for Sunday, March 3, in Claudia Crosby Theater

Troy University's Symphony Band presents its second concert of the spring this Sunday, and this time the band will be joined by the University's Concert Choral.

The concert, which is free and open to the public, takes place Sunday, March 3 at 3 p.m. in Claudia Crosby Theater.

"We don't hear a lot of pieces from the choir and the band together, so this is a special opportunity to experience that," said Dr. Mark Walker, Director of Bands. "It's going to be an afternoon of really terrific music performed at a high level by our students."

The concert features several pieces, including: Ralph Ford's "It's Vegas, Baby," Frigyes Hidas' "Rhapsody for Bass Trombone," Leonard Bernstein's "On the Town," Pavel Tchekhov's "Salvation is Created," Dan Forrest's "St. Patrick's Hymn" and Gustav Mahler's "Finale from Symphony No. 7."

Dr. Diane Orlofsky, TROY's Director of Choirs, will guest conduct on "St. Patrick's Hymn," which features the Concert Choral, the premier vocal ensemble in the John M. Long School of Music.

"Dr. Walker and I have collaborated several times in the past, and we always are on the lookout for well-written pieces that feature instrumental and chamber choir," Orlofsky said. "Dan Forrest's composition is moving, beautiful and stirring. I guarantee that the audience will be inspired by these talented young musicians."

Walker said the band will benefit from Orlofsky's presence.

"It's nice for Dr. Orlofsky to conduct the students and particularly the band, and I think they'll gain something from having her in front of them conducting. She brings a different perspective to them that will be valuable."

world around us. These ashes and these words speak to the reality that we are mortal but remind us that God calls us to eternal life."

Reneau said when his son, Grantham, was born, he was immediately rushed into the NICU, because he was not able to breathe.

"I have never felt so helpless in all my life," he said. "My wife and I could not even hold him but had to reach our hands into a containment area to touch his head or feet. On Palm Sunday, the doctors informed us that he would be rushed into surgery. I did not even get to see him before the procedure."

Reneau continues, "Thankfully, he survived, and needless to say, I am very protective of him now. About ten months later, my wife and I took Grantham to an Ash Wednesday service, and it sent chills down my spine to give my son to the minister as they traced an ashen cross on his forehead and spoke those words of mortality over him. In that moment, I remembered that all I have in my life is a gift from God, and though this tradition may seem strange it is life giving."

Rev. Reneau said he is excited to announce that this year Covenant Community Church and Elba United Methodist Church will jointly host "Ashes to Go" Wednesday, March 6, on the square in downtown Elba near the fountain from 12 noon until 1 p.m. All are invited to drive up, receive the ashes and a blessing, as well as, more information about this season of preparation.

Both churches will have Ash Wednesday services that evening, but Reneau said the Ashes to Go moment is a time to bring church to people by meeting them in their lives and letting them know that God is with them.

WESTSIDE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Cover Up

My parents took a biblical approach to punishment when I was growing up. "Spare the rod and spoil the child" was taken in its most literal sense in my house. My sister Alice and I were the last half of four children. Alice, being two years older and wiser than me, thought it best to just stay out of trouble when at all possible. I took a different approach to the disciplinary practices in my home. I always figured it was best not to get caught.

My philosophy was if nobody saw me do it then nobody can prove that I did. Alice on the other hand, had more of a guilty by association conscience and broke under mild pressure. While she couldn't go long without confessing her iniquities, she could go months at a time holding mine over my head while threatening to turn states evidence. Older sisters can think of some awful things to make a guilty little brother do. I've actually worn ballerina clothes and danced to keep her quiet. My dad has the pictures to prove it and he was always more than happy to show them to any date I ever had.

My sister Leslie and I were more alike when it came to not getting caught. She once carved my brother Gran's initials into some furniture and let him take the rap for it. He got a spanking and she watched. She confessed as an adult, but she didn't get in trouble then. Man! She was good.

Alice and I developed an unspoken understanding. If we messed up together, I was busted because she was going to eventually confess, and if I did something on my own I had better not let her find out. That in itself could be worse than confessing and being punished. However, I always knew that eventually Alice would have something she wouldn't want Mom and Dad to find out about, and then I would be in the driver's seat.

I'll never forget one rainy day when Alice and I pretended we were going on a camping trip. We began to gather our supplies for our expedition, so naturally we started in the kitchen. We made peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, put milk in our thermos bottles, and packed them in my back pack. Alice would only drink chocolate milk so we had to take along some "Nestle's Quik", but since my back pack was small and space was limited we couldn't take the whole can. Alice decided to put just enough for her milk in a plastic bag. Having secured the bag with a twist tie (there were no Ziploc bags in those days) she dropped the bag in the pack and we were off. We left the kitchen and headed for the dining room.

We decided to make camp under the dining room table. It was a logical choice because it provided us with plenty of room and shelter from the elements. After a few adventurous scouting trips around the living room and den, we decided it was just about time for lunch.

In hind sight I realize that the off-white carpet in the dining room was probably not the best choice for a camp site. Somehow in the process of unpacking our lunch Alice spilled the "Nestle's Quik" powder on the carpet. Both of us knew immediately that this was a serious problem. As Alice processed all of our options, something suddenly occurred to me. It wasn't my fault! In fact, I didn't even like chocolate milk, and my mother knew that. I was completely innocent and I had Alice right where I had always wanted her.

My sister stood at a crossroad. She did not want Mother to find out about this but she didn't know what to do to

In Honor of Black History Month - A look at Jack Johnson

The first black man to hold the world heavyweight title (1910-1915) is regarded by many as the greatest fighter of them all. In a 28-year career, he lost only 7 of 114 bouts, and his losing title bout has been disputed. Early in the 20th Century a number of talented black heavyweights came into prominence, but prejudice denied them a shot at the title and they had to fight each other for small purses. Jack Johnson of Galveston, Texas, widely considered one of the most accomplished boxers of all time, finally broke the color barrier by knocking out the reputed titleholder Tommy Burns, at Sydney, Australia in 1908. For negroes everywhere Johnson became a symbol of black power, but his flamboyant lifestyle and his marriages to two white women alienated white fans, who also resented his boxing skill. Jim Jeffries, who had retired undefeated in 1905, returned to the ring as 'the great white hope' but

Water-damaged building may harbor mold

The Alabama Department of Public Health (ADPH) urges the public to take precautionary measures to avoid indoor air quality problems as they repair their storm-damaged homes and buildings following recent floods. The recent flooding creates opportunity for molds to grow.

"Molds are mainly a health hazard to that part of the population that is allergic to them," Steven McDaniel, Bureau of Environmental Services, said. "Proper cleanup of molds decreases the amount available to cause symptoms."

Most molds do not cause infections, but some molds are a health risk to people with immune problems such as HIV infection, cancer patients taking chemotherapy and people who have received organ transplants. People with asthma, allergies, or other breathing conditions may be more sensitive to mold.

To protect against health risks associated with mold:

- Remove standing water from your home, office or business.

- Remove wet materials such as carpets, pads, insulation, wallboard, pillows and mattresses. If mold growth has already occurred, carefully remove the moldy material.

- Use personal protective equipment when cleaning or removing mold. These are gloves, goggles and an N-95 particle respirator (found at most hardware stores). This type of respirator may resemble a paper dust mask with a nozzle on the front. Other respirators are made primarily of plastic or rubber and have a removable cartridge that traps most of the mold spores from entering.

- Do not use a respirator if you have heart disease or chronic lung disease such as asthma or emphysema. Due to an inability to wear protective equipment, persons with these conditions should avoid mold cleanup.

- While cleaning up, take breaks in a well-ventilated area. Individuals with known mold allergies or asthma should not clean or remove moldy materials.

- Do not mix bleach with anything except water. Mixing bleach with other liquids could produce hazardous gases from a chemical reaction. Read and follow label instructions carefully. Open windows and doors to provide plenty of fresh air.

Cleanup needs to be done correctly to remove the musty, earthy smell from buildings. The first step in cleanup is to remove sources of moisture since remaining moisture will create the humidity causing more mold to grow. Fix any leaks and remove all water. Using a "wet-dry" shop vacuum (or the vacuum function of a carpet steam cleaner) may be helpful. Use fans and open windows, dehumidifiers or air conditioning to lower the humidity.

Remove all sheetrock to at least 12 inches above the high-water mark. Prevent the growth of mold on hard surfaces such as glass, plastic and metal by cleaning with detergent and water. To remove mold growth from hard surfaces, use commercial products, soap and water, or a bleach solution of 1 cup of bleach in 1 gallon of water. Use a stiff brush on rough surfaces such as concrete.

Alabama does not license mold remediation services or maintain a list of approved remediators, but you may check the Yellow Pages of your telephone directory for professional cleaners who are certified by the Institute of Inspecting, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (IICRC) for advice on removing molds from your home, or call the IICRC at 1-844-464-4272 to request a list of qualified professionals located in your area.

Alabama Ag Credit to distribute funds

Alabama farmers and rural property owners who borrow money from Alabama Ag Credit aren't just borrowers — they own the lending cooperative. That means that when the co-op does well, they share in its success. And for Alabama Ag Credit, 2018 was a very successful year.

In March, based on its successful financial results last year, Alabama Ag Credit will be distributing $9.1 million in cash patronage to more than 7,500 members in central and south Alabama. This amount was approved by the cooperative's board of directors.

"Being able to consistently pay a strong cash patronage to our borrowers reflects the strength of our association. The board of directors is committed to maintaining a financially strong cooperative for the benefit of all our members," said Carl Sanders, board chairman.

Not only do these cash-back payments benefit the association's members, but also the local communities and economies where that money is circulated. They also lower the overall cost of borrowing from the cooperative. Since 2006, Alabama Ag Credit has returned more than $76 million in distributions to its borrowers.

Alabama Ag Credit is a member of the nationwide Farm Credit System and provides financing for farms, timber and forestry operations, agribusinesses, country homes, recreational land and other rural property in 40 counties in central and southern Alabama. The financing cooperative has offices in Demopolis, Dothan, Enterprise, Monroeville, Montgomery, Opelika, Selma, Spanish Fort and Tuscaloosa. ### Elba High juniors take ACT test

On Wednesday, Feb. 20, all of the Elba High School juniors took the ACT test.

Alabama is one of 19 states that requires juniors to take the college admission test, and one of seven states that requires the written part of the test. The state adopted this test instead of a separate graduation exam to help students be able to apply for college and encourage those that might not already be thinking about college.

The usual cost for one test session of the ACT is $67, but juniors who take it during the session offered at school during the spring session take it for free.

Cheerleader tryouts set for March 22

Varsity tryouts are open to any upcoming 9th-12th grader in good academic standing, and JV tryouts are open to any upcoming 7th or 8th grader in good academic standing. Tryout forms will be available

Friday, March 1, at both schools.

Views From The Pressbox

By Ricky Mularz, Sports Editor

I have watched many commercials on the tube showing granddads taking their grandsons fishing. So, even though I am not a big fisherman, I spent a few hours last week getting my rods and bream busters ready for an upcoming trip. My goal is to teach Lawson how to bait his own hook and stand still long enough to catch a fish all by himself. I'll report back on our success!

For what it is worth....

*** The Elba Tiger baseball team dropped its season opener to New Brockton after jumping out an early 3-0 lead, but bounced back late in the week and blasted Samson 11-0 behind some big bats and a no-hitter tossed by Tiger pitcher Blake Swann. It is early in the season and everyone on the Tigers' schedule will get better, but right now it looks like Elba may very well be one of the teams to beat in the 1A ranks in the area.

*** The Elba Tiger JV is off to a 3-0 start and has already made it clear that it plans to hang up a bunch of 'W's' on the wall as the season rolls along. This team is made up of players that have been playing together since back in t-ball, and everyone on the roster knows his job and how to do it. This will be a fun bunch to watch in the weeks, and years to come.

*** The Elba Lady Tiger softball team opened its season last week and bounced back from a loss at Pike County to claim a big road win over Straughn. The Lady Tigers are very young with only two seniors on the roster, but have already begun to mold into a team and if they continue to improve may just surprise some folks as the season rolls along.

*** The Elba Lady Tiger junior varsity opened its season last week and played a total of eight games in six days. The JV posted two wins early in the week to surpass last season's win total, but the coaches have made it clear that the goal is for the girls to learn the game and let someone else worry about the record, and with 16 girls on the roster, it is easy to see that teaching the game is priority number one.

*** The seasons opened last week for many area teams and making the most noise were the New Brockton Gamecocks. The Gamecocks knocked off Elba on the road early in the week and then swept 3A power Geneva in a late-week doubleheader to let everyone know they are hunting a state title. Brantley lost to 6A Northview and while its record may not be pretty early in the season, you know the Bulldogs are getting ready to make a run. Over in softball, Kinston won its opener over 4A Andalusia and appears to be better than ever, while Zion Chapel dropped its opener, but is expected to have one of its best teams in years. Yep, it looks like an exciting time ahead for the fans in both baseball and softball.

*** In closing.... the Maori Davenport saga ended last week when Charles Henderson was eliminated at the regional tournament and hours later the lawsuit against the AHSAA was dropped by the same judge that had issued a restraining order that allowed her to play while the case was pending a court date. Davenport's mother said after the case had been dismissed that allowing her daughter to play her senior season was the purpose of the suit and she felt like they had won since the talented senior did indeed play despite an AHSAA ruling. The much discussed matter will reach an end sometime soon when the AHSAA makes a final ruling, likely to include forfeited games and fines, but games are won on the court and not on a piece of paper, and I guess the Davenport's are correct that no matter what else happens, Maori got to play her senior season, and that made her the winner.

Lady Tigers surprise Straughn 6-4

The Elba Lady Tigers claimed their first win of the young high school softball season Thursday night, Feb. 21, with an exciting 6-4 win over Straughn.

A one-out single by Jaylyn Baker sparked a 3-run first inning for the Lady Tigers, while a two-out walk to Amaysia Whitfield kept the inning alive and set the table for McKenzie Hooks, who delivered a two-run triple and later scored on a wild pitch to put Elba on top 3-0 early.

Straughn took advantage of an Elba error to push across an unearned run in the bottom of the inning to pull within 3-1, but a one-out single by Zaida Williams enabled the Lady Tigers to flip the batting order in the top of the second, and when Sandra Lindsey followed with a triple off the centerfield fence, and later stole home, Elba's lead was up to 5-1 after just two trips to the plate.

Elba freshman pitcher Mckenlie Jerkins handcuffed the Straughn batters over the game's initial five innings as she allowed only two hits, one unearned run and recorded six strikeouts. However, Straughn bunched together three hits in the bottom of the sixth and took advantage of two Elba errors to plate three runs and chopped the Lady Tigers' lead to 5-4.

Mckenlie Jerkins beat out an infield hit and went to second on an error to open the Elba seventh, and courtesy runner Leah Faircloth raced home on a Straughn error in the infield to add an insurance run as the Lady Tigers regained command and held on to post the big 6-4 road win.

Zaida Williams had 3 hits and scored 1 run to lead Elba at the plate, while McKenzie Hooks added 1 hit, scored 1 run and knocked in 2 runs; Sandra Lindsey added 1 hit, scored 1 run and had 1 rbi; Jaylyn Baker added 1 hit and scored 1 run; and, Mckenlie Jerkins added 1 hit and got the win inside the circle as she allowed two earned runs on seven hits and recorded eight strikeouts.

SWANN TOSSES NO-HITTER.... Elba Tiger pitcher Blake Swann tossed a no-hitter with 13 strikeouts last week to lead the Tigers to a big 11-0 road win over Samson. Swann faced only 20 batters in the six-inning gem.

Late Elba rally falls short in 6-5 loss in opener

The Elba Lady Tigers opened the high school softball season last Tuesday night, Feb. 19, on a cold and windy night in Brundidge and saw a late rally fall one-run short as they lost to Pike County 6-5.

Elba had a hard time getting settled into the batters box early in the game as the Lady Tigers managed only a single by Praise Edwards in the third and a single by Amaysia Whitfield in the fourth.

The same wasn't true for Pike County; however, as it plated two runs in the first, third and fifth innings and banged out 11 hits to open up a 6-0 lead heading into the top of the seventh inning.

McKenzie Hooks reached on an error to open the seventh for the Lady Tigers and Praise Edwards was hit by a pitch with one out to pump life into Elba, and Makenna Gray, Zaida Williams and Sandra Lindsey all followed with singles as the Lady Tigers cut the lead to 6-4. Jaylyn Baker ripped a two-out triple to pull Elba within 6-5, but was left on third with the tying run as a fly ball out ended the rally and the game with Pike County still on top 6-5.

Zaida Williams had 1 hit, scored 1 run and knocked in 2 runs to lead Elba at the plate, while Sandra Lindsey and Makenna Gray both added 1 hit, scored 1 run and collected 1 rbi; Jaylyn Baker added 1 hit and 1 rbi; Praise Edwards added 1 hit and scored 1 run; and, Amaysia Whitfield added 1 hit.

Mckenlie Jerkins took the loss inside the circle as she allowed three earned runs on eight hits and recorded nine strikeouts.

Elba baseball hosts annual Old Timers vs Rookies event

The Elba High School baseball program held its annual Old Timers vs Rookies Hit-a-Thon and Game last Saturday, Feb. 23, at the EHS baseball field.

This is a fundraising event for the baseball program. It also is a fun day for both current Elba baseball players and those from days gone by.

Baseball coach Glen Johnson thanked everyone who helped make the event another success this year. As for the game, he said three innings were played [before the old timers gave out].

The old timers did have a little help as Johnson said they were loaned a catcher and a senior from the stands. But, in the end, it was the rookies for the win with 3-2 final.

Johnson said the baseball program, however, was the big winner with great support shown for it through this fun event that is highly anticipated each year.

Round & About (Continued from Page FIVE)

Jim Jeffries, who had retired undefeated in 1905, returned to the ring as 'the great white hope' but Johnson easily defeated him in Reno, Nevada in 1910 — thus becoming the undisputed world heavyweight title holder. Outrage at the black champion's ways mounted to such a pitch that in 1912 he was convicted on dubious evidence of having violated the Mann Act forbidding the transport of women across state lines for immoral purposes. Sentenced to a year in prison, he fled the country while out on bail.

Johnson lost his title to Jess Willard in April 1915 in Havana, Cuba, in a 26th round knockout that was regarded by many experts as questionable.

clean it up. It is a beautiful thing to see an older sister realize she must consult her "stupid little brother" for advice. Realizing I was much more experienced in the art of covering tracks, she reluctantly asked me what we ought to do. My mind raced at the opportunity that had lain itself before me.

I laughed inside as I chose my words carefully. I spoke with the confidence of a seasoned veteran. "Go get the vacuum cleaner quick" I said trying to look worried. "Get it up before mom sees it." Alice started to head for the closet where my mother kept the vacuum, but stopped short. Being older and wiser she had seen through my plan.

Obviously, Mother would hear the vacuum, come to investigate, and Alice would be found out. Seeing that I wasn't completely on her side she decided to take matters into her own hands. She thought about it for a moment and then did what she thought was the next best thing. She went to the kitchen and got a wet rag. The brown stain that resulted stayed under our table until we replaced the carpet years later. My mother eventually came to see why we were so quiet. The truth came pouring out, only this time not from Alice but from me. How easily the words came flowing out of my mouth. "I told her to get the vacuum cleaner, but she didn't want you to hear it." Revenge is sweet, but usually short-lived. It wasn't long after that that I got ketchup on the ceiling, but that's another story.

We have all at one time or another tried to make some kind of cover up for our shortcomings. The truth is, it can't be done. The Bible puts it this way "...and you may be sure that your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23). Just ask Adam and Eve (Gen. 3), or Achan (Jos. 7), or David (2 Sam. 11-12), and the list goes on and on. Oh, you can fool yourself for a while, but you can't fool God.

I realized after many years and many "rods" that Alice was right after all. It is much better to confess and have a clean conscience than to spend time in the futility of trying to cover up. I think John summed it up best. "If we claim to be without sin, we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:8-9).
